Avoid depreciation - Leasing and equipment finance is an operating expense with no depreciation to account for or track.

Bundle your solution - Bundle all your equipment, accessories and installation into an operating lease.

Keep up to date - Lease assets and equipment over their productive life then upgrade at the end of term to new and better equipment.

Be more productive - The extra productivity of the new equipment will help pay for the lease cost.

Evolve with your lease - As a business needs to evolve, you can add on equipment at any stage of the lease term and include it all in one monthly payment.

Tax benefits - Leasing is a fully deductible operating expense for tax purposes for a business. Ask your accountant or tax advisor for advice.†
